Where People and Nature Interact

With the theme for 2016 being History in the Present, it is an ideal time to draw connections between the way in which Presqu'ile functioned in the past and the way we are using the Park now, and what this means to The Friends of Presqu'ile Park.

Our Vision—The Friends of Presqu'ile Park view Presqu'ile Provincial Park as a valued and irreplaceable asset that should provide learning, recreational, and conservation opportunities for all. We are an organization that believes above all that the natural heritage of this unique area must be preserved and protected for future generations to enjoy.

As I prepared to write this article in the context of this year's theme, I was struck by how both the People and Nature aspects of The Friends' Vision for Presqu'ile are so very appropriate as we cast our view back in time.

When you visit the Marsh Boardwalk, rebuilt by The Friends about five years ago, you will read on the interpretive board at the first viewing tower how nature created our tombolo. Once formed, unique flora and fauna – plants, birds, mammals, and reptiles thrived according to the laws of nature.

Up until the early 1800s, there simply was no need for people and nature to interact. However, that changed around the time that the Speedy sank (another interesting aspect of history depicted on interpretive plaques in the Park and in the Lighthouse Interpretive Centre, along with the displays and our Jack Atkins history videos).

By the early 1900s, Presqu'ile became popular as a recreational area with most visitors arriving by boat. Access by land began with simple trails suitable for horse and wagon and slow-moving Model 'T' motor cars. These small trails cut through the middle of the Marsh/Panne habitat were of little concern to the turtles migrating to their nesting areas because of the infrequent and also slow-moving traffic.

However, in this, the 21st century, it is a very different scenario. The impact of people on nature in this day and age is dramatic, with over 200,000 Park visitors and with services being provided to the many cottages and now permanent residents on Presqu'ile Point. This once innocuous little trail has become a major access roadway to construction and recreational vehicles by the thousands.

Today 'nature' needs a hand from 'people' to prevent some of our very important 'species at risk' from becoming extirpated.

The Friends of Presqu'ile are proud to be participating in a joint activity between Ontario Parks, Laurentian University, and many others including the Brighton Rotary Club Henry Hayes Memorial Fund, to reconnect the habitat severed by the road through constructing underpasses and environmentally appropriate directional fencing.

It is a very large and important initiative, which demonstrates we are not the only ones who believe this unique area must be preserved and protected for future generations to enjoy.

Our members can be proud of the increased contributions made in recent years, and I would invite you to attend our Annual General Meeting on June 4th to learn more about the accomplishments of our fantastic organization, some of which are contained in this large spring edition of the Beacon.

Steve Sinclair,

The Experience that is Presqu'ile

A Provincial Park is a special place. I think most folks who are reading this already know that. However, every once in a while we have some people who really articulate what this actually means. For the staff at the Park, their comments really reinforce what this place means to people.

Paula and Ivan are a wonderful example of this. They contacted the Park during the summer of 2014 during a trip to Canada from their home in Mexico. They basically said they wanted to come and volunteer and help out at the Park. They had no caveats and no restrictions, they just wanted to help.

I urge you to read this charming letter, and think about what it means.

Rob Cunningham, Park Superintendent, Presqu'ile and Ferris Provincial Parks

... for us, the most special Park

A letter from our Mexican friends, Paula Calzada & Ivan Cruces

On a holiday trip to Canada in 2014 we visited Presqu'ile Park for the first time and were surprised by the work done there on environmental education and the infrastructure at Presqu'ile.

Parks in Canada and Ontario Parks are very different from those found in national parks we have in Mexico. Being biology students we also came to ask for information about volunteering in 2015 and we found the first of many good people in Presqu'ile. Superintendent Rob Cunningham, who explained to us that we were welcome to set up a volunteer program and he wished us well.

Once in Mexico we kept in touch with Rob for almost a year. So this spring (2015, ed.) we returned to Canada to begin our volunteer program for May and June, and met the rest of the team of Presqu'ile Park.

In these two months we helped to set up the Nature Centre, from washing a carpet to collecting the specimens on display in the tanks. We also had the opportunity to observe and check very quickly a collection of books on topics of reptiles and amphibians, birds, mammals, insects, and more.

We also took a two-day job-training course with other young people who were employed for summer jobs at the park. (This was the usual H&S, WDHP, WHIMIS, etc. that all staff get annually, ed.) Although English is not our first language we thought we pass the exams (They did quite well, ed.).

This kind of training was different for us because Mexico is little practiced in this type of course and aspects like needing a certificate to use certain equipment, use of safety equipment, and the number of signs needed in the areas of labour, materials and labour hazards that exist, were new to us.

We also helped the Bio staff to plant trees in the greenhouse, such as Birch, Elm, and Oak. Steve taught us a lot about the plants growing in Presqu'ile as well as the migratory birds that come to the park in the summer and the ones that live in the park all the year.

We also cleaned the three beaches, which was very pleasant because we found almost no garbage. We had the opportunity to help in "the Turtle Project" for the protection of turtles that cross the park roads (renovating a space for their nests). That day we crossed path with Sean Boyle (Laurentian Ph.D. candidate, ed.) who works with turtles in the park.

We spent a day dedicated to walking the trails and soon realized that the park is really huge! The trails we liked most were the Jobs' Woods Trail. It is perhaps one of the most peaceful and interesting trails, but if you are like us, you like a more adventurous feeling trail, then the Pioneer Trail is the best choice. That's where we saw snakes, small and colorful birds, lots of chipmunks (which for us are very charismatic), traces of medium-sized mammals, trees and small flowers, also mosses and weird mushrooms.

We learned that the Canadian culture of preserving a natural area goes beyond just having the land in good condition and protect species. It also involves information of flora and fauna. You can have a very interactive visit, and the park maintenance involves many people working together.

Here in Canada camping culture is almost a tradition. Observing wildlife is almost an everyday occurrence. The many park activities go hand in hand with the environmental aspects of animals and

MEXICO

Find out more about Mexico and its many National Parks. There are 67 federally recognized national parks and they cover nearly 1.5 million hectares (0.73% of the land area of Mexico).

Canada's 38 National Parks and 8 Reserves cover 30 million hectares (3% of our total land area). Canadian provinces and territories are responsible for their own provincial parks and conservation areas.

Most regular visitors to Presqu'ile have heard about the migration of the Monarch butterfly. They make the spectacular journey to the forests of western central Mexico (more than 4000 kms) where they spend their winter hibernating in clusters in small areas of the Reserva de la Biosfera Mariposa Monarca (a nature preserve that covers more than 518 sq.km.).

plants, and we think that one of the most important things is the aspects of tolerance and respect shown on the job.

We had the opportunity to visit the place with which we identify perhaps more. The famous "ISLAND", where forest restoration work and monitoring of birds for the recovery of this ecosystem is on-going.

Our last day in the park was very emotional for us, as we feel sad to leave the park that opened its doors to us and every single person we met made us feel welcome throughout our stay; Allyson, Laura, Kristen, Rachel, David, Don, Mike, Steve, the other Steve, Rob, Gary, Jack, Brian, Matt, Phil (Peterborough offices of Ontario Parks), to name a few. We are very happy to have had the opportunity to collaborate in Presqu'ile Park... for us, the most special Park.

Thanks to every one... We'll be back!

BRIGHTON'S 4th HISTORY OPEN HOUSE February 20, 2016

The Friends have had a lot of fun joining in on this weekend of celebration of history in and around Brighton. There certainly is a lot to learn.

We have been part of this event every year. Our volunteers set up our display and enjoy sharing with visitors the history of The Friends and of Presqu'ile Park.

We held a raffle for an Ontario Park's Annual Pass and the winner is Lindi Pierce of Belleville. She posted the following on her website:

'... As soon as I arrived at home, I received a call from a lovely woman who informed me that my tiny contribution toward a ticket won me a Provincial Parks season pass! (Considering that we have 8 or 9 weeks of PP camping planned for this summer, it will get good use.) So, thanks Friends of Presqu'ile! If you have ever enjoyed this outstanding provincial park, you will have tasted some of the fruit of this group's hard work - from the magnificent boardwalk, to the NHE programs, to the tree-planting and trail maintenance. And if you have, you ought to become a member, and give back a wee bit in return.'

Congratulations, Lindi, and thanks for supporting us.

Welcome to Tim Lawley

I am pleased to announce, on behalf of the Board of Directors, the election of Tim Lawley as a new Director. In the fall of last year, Tim and various Board Members reviewed the Board of Directors and Committee Package, and at the January 2016 Board Meeting Tim was elected to fill a vacant Board position as called for in By-Law # 88-1 – 17.

Tim's experience on other Boards, along with his organizational and computer skills, are being well used as he fulfills the essential role of 'Archivist', maintaining proper files, both electronic and paper, as required by the Canada Revenue Agency and the Ontario Corporations Act, and of course guiding the organization through carrying out of his Director's responsibilities.

Please join me in congratulating Tim for taking on this additional volunteer role with The Friends.

*Steve Sinclair,
Chair, The Friends of Presqu'ile Park*

Tim introduces himself

My outside-of-work interests have been with 'nature' and 'outdoor' orientated organisations, namely the Bruce Trail Association, Oak Ridges Trail Association, Northumberland Land Trust, and the Willow Beach Field Naturalists.

For me, volunteer work with these organisations has been directed towards the preservation of the natural surroundings with the added aim of making nature accessible for people to safely enjoy.

My introduction to Presqu'ile Provincial Park and The Friends has been through volunteering as a Trail Monitor; clearing of Scots Pine, and building boardwalks. These experiences gave me the belief that this marvelous Park, with its unique setting, deserved a special effort to help in its preservation. I found that the best way to direct this effort was to support The Friends of Presqu'ile Park and all of its volunteering opportunities.

E-WASTE DAY A GREAT SUCCESS

A great environmental project came our way from Matt Higgs, marketing director of Quinte Mall in Belleville. As a public service, the Mall partnered with Ontario Electronic Stewardship and offered the community a free drop-off day for e-waste.

The event, held on Saturday, April 9, was the Mall's second e-waste collection. The first, in September 2015, collected six tonnes of electronic waste.

In the parking lot, 12 keen volunteers helped with the lifting and loading of literally hundreds of old TVs, cell phones, and all sorts of recorders, players, cameras, etc. into huge containers, 10 tonnes in all. Vehicles lined up 10-deep to deliver e-waste to the containers and by mid-afternoon a 3rd container was almost half full.

Inside the Mall, other volunteers from The Friends set up our display near the food court. They did a great job of explaining the role of The Friends of Presqu'ile Park and promoting the Park.

What was in it for us, besides helping the environment? Well, Ontario Electronic Stewardship makes a payment based on weight and the Mall kindly donates this to a not-for-profit environmental group.

And so, on Tuesday, April 26, Matt Higgs was able to hand over to The Friends of Presqu'ile Park a cheque for $1953.60. Rita and John Robbescheuten, who were among the volunteers helping out on E-Waste Day, kindly attended the presentation and accepted the cheque on behalf of The Friends.

"We couldn't be happier with the community participation for this event," said Matt Higgs, marketing director for Quinte Mall.

"It's great to see not only the environmental win by keeping these items out of landfill, but also a local environmental charity benefit so they can continue on their mission of conserving our natural world."

'Thank you' to all of the volunteers from The Friends and to the Quinte Mall for thinking of us.

The environment wins and, with this donation, The Friends will be able to do more for Presqu'ile Park. A win-win for sure.

A Road to Conservation: Update

By the end of April, 2016, we should have purchased the remaining turtle fencing and selected our contractor for the installation. The installation contractor will be asked to involve The Friends members if possible.

In the December 2015 edition of The Beacon, we reported that installation of the first tunnel had begun. Since then, the second tunnel has been installed.

Leopard Frogs and other species will benefit from the wildlife tunnels. Photo: David Bree

Our ongoing commitment to this project is providing support through funding. The Friends have been in regular contact with the Brighton Rotary Club, over a period of months, who had informed us that they might be able to help.

Chair Steve Sinclair made two presentations to the Rotary Club and, at their March 4 meeting, he told members that "The entire project is about $300,000." He also covered the details of the project, including timescales and the other donors. (Ontario Parks are making a significant contribution.)

Very Generous Donation from Brighton Rotary Club

The result is that the Brighton Rotary Club has given a very generous donation of $25,000 from their fund, the Henry Hayes Memorial Fund. We will be using this to purchase over a kilometre of special fencing which keeps the reptiles and amphibians off the road but allows them to escape from it should they somehow get there.

The Ministry of Natural Resources has approved our grant application in the amount of $30,000 from the Species at Risk Stewardship Fund for the purchase of fencing for Habitat Reconnectivity.

These funds will ensure that the project is done and is done professionally. Work is to be completed this year, with research to continue into 2017 to determine if the solution recommended by scientists has been as effective as they have anticipated.

Natural Heritage Education staff - ready to greet you once again in 2016

This year's NHE staff will be a mix of old and new. Back this year are stalwarts, Allyson Parker, Laura McClintock and Kristen Osborne, along with Natasha Lewis, Vivienne Wu, and Rachel Revoy.

The new? We don't know yet, but interviews are ongoing and I am sure the new fresh faces will bring the same enthusiasm to the job that all NHE folks show.

This year we plan on introducing a History Cart along with our Critter Cart to bring stories of Presqu'ile's past directly to our visitors. Keep an eye out for it and all our NHE staff this summer and please come over and say hi.

Did you know that 98% of visitors say that a Park visit reduces stress?

The Website and Social Media Facebook and Twitter

At a number of meetings during 2015, the Communications Team discussed whether The Friends should be using social media. While the rest of the world embraced it, we questioned it for a whole number of reasons, some which Ontario Parks were concerned about and some that we, The Friends, were worried about.

Communications team: Jenny and Pete Alker, David Bree, Don Boucher and (seated) Fletch, meet with Anne MacLachlan (Ontario Parks) Photo: Don Tyerman

At our January 2016 meeting, the majority of our time was devoted to understanding and discussing Ontario Parks' use of social media and how Presqu'ile Park and The Friends of Presqu'ile can benefit/use it.

The session was led by Anne MacLachlan, from Ontario Parks' main office. She covered a number of topics: development of their marketing strategy, the transfer of part of the focus from traditional marketing to an electronic approach, and the results that are being delivered.

The use and mechanics of using both Facebook and Twitter and whether we were looking at two platforms

(one for Ontario Parks and one for The Friends) or a single combined Park/The Friends were discussed in detail.

Given the benefits and coverage that other Parks are now experiencing, and the fact that there were sites appearing which looked as though they were our official site, we concluded:

To recommend that the Park and The Friends would operate a collaborative single Facebook page which would also automatically load to a Twitter account and vice versa. So anyone logging onto either The Friends or Parks Facebook/Twitter platforms would go to the same pages.

The benefits are: plentiful content, managed so that duplication of effort is eliminated. The site would also be loaded with information being cascaded down from head office. The management of the site would be under the watchful eyes of Ontario Parks head office, who would also provide training and support.

So Presqu'ile Park is now on both and you can go to us directly via <https://www.facebook.com/PresquilePP> and <https://twitter.com/PresquilePP> or via the logos now on the home page of The Friends' website.

We will continue to use The Friends' website as our main focus for information and details of events and facts about us and the Park. The two social platforms will send out sound bites and will point you to where you can find out more on the website.

Report from Waterfowl Weekend - March 19 and 20

Presqu'île Waterfowl Weekend, 2016 version, occurred March 19 and 20. Unlike the freezing conditions of the last two years, this winter was quite mild and Presqu'île Bay opened up all the way to the end before the 19th.

This makes seeing ducks a bit more challenging as they are scattered well out into the bay. Luckily we had great weather, great exhibitors, and great volunteers to make the weekend an enjoyable success for our visitors.

Over 1500 people visited this year and many stopped at both the Nature Centre and Lighthouse Centre to take in the activities at both locations. Thanks to taxidermist Steve Dingman, carver and photographer Gary McPherson, and artist Sherrie Grieg for their displays at the Nature Centre.

Waterfowl migration here is a world-class natural phenomenon that is a memorable event. This year memories were made, but I think many will involve the many smiling volunteers, from Nancy Sutton, Volunteer Coordinator, and her crew at the gate right through to Jack Scott flipping hamburgers.

Thank you all for those memories.

We also had a number of other volunteers there helping the kids with their crafts and scavenger hunt. Special mention goes to Anne McPherson, who jumped in to help at the last minute on Saturday morning when the scheduled volunteer came down sick.

The Lighthouse Interpretive Centre continues to be a hub of activity and thanks go to The Friends' BBQ crew, artists Linda Barber and Doug Comeau, and the Bushnell representative, Dave Richards.

The Friends had numerous other volunteers down there selling raffle tickets, cookies, and coffee, and helping in The Friends' Lighthouse Gift Shop. Of course, that whole building runs smoothly every year under the tutelage of Joyce and Don Boucher.

Ducks were present; probably 7000 out in the bay, and the volunteers at the viewing stations did a great job showing people what was there, though it was a good thing the

Warblers and Whimbrels Weekend - May 21 and 22

What a strange winter and spring we have had! The best analogy I can think of is a yo-yo. One day -20°C, two days later +5°C. Almost no ice on the bay at all this winter and then snow in April!

I certainly can't predict what weather is coming but a year like this does show you that you can't take anything for granted. When a nice day shows up, one should do everything one can to get outside and enjoy nature.

As I write this, it does feel as if spring has truly arrived. The sun is shining and the pannes are full of water and the frogs are going full out.

The Leopard Frogs in particular are giving the best chorus of that species I've ever heard. Also of note are the Wood Frogs along Jobes' Woods Trail. The boardwalk along this trail gives you the best chance of actually seeing a frog calling.

When you walk up to where the Wood Frogs are calling, they fall silent and sink below the surface of the water. But if you wait quietly, after a few minutes, they will pop back up and soon start singing again. They have two air-sacs, one on either side of their head, rather than just one under their chin. Look for the ripples on the water's surface to see where they are.

And of course the birds are becoming more active. Goldfinches have started singing and it won't be long before we are blessed with an influx of our migrating songbirds. It is this May influx of our songbirds that really means spring for many of us, particularly the bird watchers.

That is where Presqu'ile Park's Warblers and Whimbrels Weekend (May 21 and 22) comes in. It is scheduled to take advantage of this wave of migrants and has a number of events designed to assist people in identifying and appreciating our many migrants.

An early morning bird walk is scheduled for the Lighthouse Centre at 6:30 am. For those that want to start a little later, we will have another walk at 10:00 am. At 2:00 pm we will have a guided walk along the Owen Point Trail to look for shorebirds, and anything else along the way.

In addition to migrating birds moving through this area, some of these birds coming in call the Park home for the summer and should be starting their nest-building activities by this weekend. Warbling Vireo, Purple Martins, Redstarts, and Baltimore Orioles, to name just a few, usually have nests around the lighthouse and we can usually find some.

Rose-breasted Grosbeaks are just one of the 100+ species of birds that migrate through Presqu'ile in May

Elizabeth Kellogg bands a Black-and-White Warbler

We are also very fortunate to once again have Elizabeth Kellogg and Roger Frost present to demonstrate the art of bird-banding and allow visitors to get some close looks at our feathered friends. They will be banding in the Owen Point Trail parking lot, between 8:00 am and noon, weather permitting. (Unlike birding, banding cannot be carried out in the rain, as it is too hard on the birds.)

The Park's Lighthouse Interpretive Centre and The Friends' Gift Shop will be open both days, from 10:00 am to 4:00 pm. The Friends will be running their fundraising BBQ starting at 11:00 am. All events go on both days at the same times.

This is the last weekend to get your raffle tickets for the Bushnell Raffle. There are two great prizes: a fine binocular and a scope set.

So come on out and enjoy a Presqu'ile Spring.
